

The United States Army Security Assistance Command

The Army's Face to the World

R. ALAN KING

Deputy Program Manager and Chief of Staff United States Army Military Assistance Group

Mr. Alan King is the Deputy Program Manager and Chief of Staff, U.S. Army Military Assistance Group (USAMAG), Kingdom of Saudi Arabia. Prior to serving with USAMAG, Mr. King was formerly the G3, Office of the Program Manager, Saudi Arabian National Guard (OPM-SANG). He has over 39 years of experience leading Soldiers and civilians while in uniform, civil service and in a private capacity supporting the Department of Defense, the State Department, and Congressional delegations.

His distinguished military background in the Army includes tours in Panama for Operation Just Cause, Bosnia and Iraq for Operation Iraqi Freedom, and Honduras. The battalion Mr. King commanded in Iraq was awarded the Presidential Unit Citation for extraordinary heroism. His military awards include two Bronze Star Medals for Valor. He served as a Civil Affairs and Psychological Operations officer and retired at the rank of colonel.

Mr. King's success with Iraqi tribes was widely profiled in the international media, and his service in the Middle East extends over three decades. He has served as an advisor to senior leaders in the Departments of Defense and State Department, and he has advised Congressional leaders on security issues in the Middle East. Mr. King served as a senior member of the ceasefire delegations in Fallujah and Sadr City, Iraq in April 2004, and he has testified before the House of Representatives concerning security conditions in Iraq.

He is an International Development doctoral candidate (ABD) at the University of Southern Mississippi with concentrations in Political Development and National Security. Mr. King is a graduate of the U.S. Air Force Air War College and holds Masters of Art degrees in International Relations and Management from Webster University, and a Bachelor of Science degree from East Tennessee State University. Mr. King is an award winning author and noted speaker on counterterrorism, insurgency and counterinsurgency, cultural understanding in irregular warfare and Middle East geopolitics.

He has received numerous honors and awards for his achievements and contributions in international affairs including being selected as an Honorary Henry G. Bennett Distinguished Fellow from Oklahoma State University and presented with the William E. Colby Award for significant contributions to international relations and intelligence operations.