

ARMY
FUTURES COMMAND

Mr. William “Willie” Nelson

Mr. William “Willie” Nelson is a member of the Senior Executive Service and the commanding general's senior civilian advisor. He brings extensive technical, engineering and acquisition expertise to command engagements with industry and academia, oversees AFC's financial resources and manages command-wide programs for more than 17,000 personnel.

Nelson earned a U.S. Air Force commission through ROTC at the University of Texas at Austin and retired as a space and missile officer after 20 years of service. His recent roles as a DOD civilian include deputy assistant secretary of the Army for research and technology / Army chief scientist and director of the Assured Positioning, Navigation and Timing/Space Cross-Functional Team. He holds a master's degree from Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University and is a graduate of Harvard's Senior Executives in National and International Security and Oxford's Advanced Management & Leadership Programs.