CREATION AND AUTHORITY.—The Department of War was established as an executive department at the seat of government by an act approved August 7, 1789 (1 Stat. 49; 5 U. S. C. 181). The Secretary of War was established as its head and his powers were those entrusted to him by the President.

The National Security Act of 1947 (61 Stat. 499; 5 U. S. C. 171) created the National Military Establishment. The Department of War was designated the Department of the Army and the title of its Secretary became Secretary of the Army. The Department of the Air Force and the United States Air Force were established as a separate department and armed service, respectively, and certain functions, property, personnel, and records were transferred by the Secretary of Defense from the Department of the Army to the newly created Department of the Air Force.

The National Security Act Amendments of 1949 (63 Stat. 578; 5 U. S. C. 171) established the Department of Defense as an executive department of the Government, and provided that the Department of the Army, the Department of the Navy, and the Department of the Air Force be military departments within the Department of Defense. The National Security Act Amendments of 1949 created in the Department of the Army the offices of Comptroller and Deputy Comptroller of the Army.

The Army Organization Act of 1950 (now in 10 U. S. C. 3012, 3062) provided the statutory basis for the internal organization of the Army and the Department of the Army. The act consolidated and revised the numerous earlier laws, incorporated various adjustments made necessary by the National Security Act of 1947 and other postwar enactments, and provided for the organization of the Department of the Army in a single comprehensive statute, with certain minor exceptions. In general, the act followed the policy of vesting broad organizational powers in the Secretary of the Army, subject to delegation by him, rather than specifying the duties of subordinate officers.

MISSION.—The Department of the Army is charged with the responsibility of providing support for national and international policy and the security of the United States by planning, directing, and reviewing the military and civil operations of the Department of the Army, to include the organization, training, and equipping of land forces of the United States for the conduct of prompt and sustained combat operations on land in accordance with plans for national security.

COMMAND OF THE ARMY.—Command of the Army is exercised by the President through the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of the Army, who directly represent him; and, under the law and decisions of the Supreme Court, their acts are the President's acts, and their directions and orders are the President's directions and orders.

The major commands of the Army are the United States Continental Army Command; United States Army Air Defense Command; United States Army, Europe; United States Army, Pacific; United States Army Forces, Southern Command; United States Army, Alaska; United States Army Materiel Command; United States Army Combat Developments Command; United States Army Forces, Strike Command; United States Army Strategic Communications Command; United States Army Security Agency; United States Army Intelligence Corps Command; and the Military Traffic Management and Terminal Service.

Secretary of the Army

The Secretary of the Army is the head of the Department of the Army. Subject to the direction, authority, and control of the President as Commander in Chief and of the Secretary of Defense, the Secretary of the Army is responsible for and has the authority to conduct all affairs of the Department of the Army, including but not limited to those necessary or appropriate for the training, operations, administration, logistical support and maintenance, welfare, preparedness, and effectiveness of the Army, including research and development, and such other activities as may be prescribed by the President or the Secretary of Defense as authorized by law.

He is responsible for all aspects of the Federal Civil Defense Program assigned to the Department of Defense.

He is held responsible for the civil administration of certain foreign areas, and for the protection of all Army installations and facilities within the United States, its Territories, and the District of Columbia, which are vital to the national security.

He is responsible for certain civil functions, such as the maintenance, care, and operation of the Panama Canal; the civil works program of the Corps of Engineers, which includes water resource development activities such as waterways improvement, flood control, navigation, water supply, river flow regulation, recreation development, hydroelectric power, shore protection, information concerning flood hazards, and regulatory functions including approval of plans for bridges and other works of improvement in navigable waters; the National Cemetery program; and such other activities of a civil nature as may be prescribed by higher authority or authorized by law.

He is a member of the Armed Forces Policy Council, established by the National Security Act of 1947, as amended. He heads the Army Policy Council (see page 153).

In the absence of the Secretary of the Army, the Under Secretary acts as Secretary; in the absence of the Secretary and the Under Secretary, the Assistant Secretaries in the order fixed by their length of service as such, act as Secretary.

Under Secretary of the Army

The Under Secretary of the Army acts as deputy to the Secretary of the Army and is his principal civilian assistant. His assigned specific fields of responsibility are: manpower and personnel, to include Reserve Components and ROTC; stationing of units and activities; disciplinary barracks and custody of military prisoners; security matters other than physical security of industrial plants; health, morale, safety, and welfare matters; military history; continental defense, continuity of Government operations, and Army participation in Federal civil defense program; Canal Zone Government and Panama Canal Company affairs; matters pertaining to the U.S. Soldiers' Home; international security matters; intelligence; Staff support of the Army Policy Council; the Army Council of Review Boards and its component boards including the Army Discharge Review Board, the Army Disability Review Board, the Army Board of Review for Eliminations, the Army Physical Disability Appeal Board, the Army Security Review Board, and the Ad Hoc Review Board; the Employment Policy and Grievance Review Staff; the Army-Air Force Clemency and Parole Board; the Army Board for Correction of Military Records; senior Army member of the Department of Defense Reserve Forces Policy Board; Army member of Department of Defense Manpower and Personnel Council; and the Per Diem Travel and Transportation Allowance Committee.

Assistant Secretary of the Army (Research and Development)

Subject to the direction and control of the Secretary of the Army, the Assistant Secretary of the Army (Research and Development) is authorized and directed to act for the Secretary of the Army within the following listed fields of responsibility: research and development, including basic and applied research; research, development, test, and evaluation of weapons, weapons systems, and Army materiel; RDT&E budget and funding programs; acquisition and utilization of research and development facilities and equipment; RDT&E procurement, including the application of procurement policy thereto; integration of technology with military requirements; and Army Scientific Advisory Panel matters; mapping and geodetic programs; coordination of all research and development matters with the Department of Defense, other military departments, and other agencies outside of the Department of Defense. The Assistant Secretary of the Army (Research and Development) serves as the senior Army member on the Aeronautics and Astronautics Coordinating Board and the DOD Research and Engineering Policy Council.

Assistant Secretary of the Army (Installations and Logistics)

Subject to the direction and control of the Secretary of the Army, the Assistant Secretary of the Army (Installations and Logistics) is authorized and directed to act for the Secretary of the Army within the following listed fields of responsibility: procurement and production; material management, including storage, distribution, maintenance, and disposition; communications, transportation, and other service activities. He is responsible for Army participation in the Military Assistance Programs (exclusive of financial management); materiel and materials requirements; industrial mobilization, and industrial labor relations. He is responsible for the contractual aspects of the Equal Employment Program and for economic utilization. The Assistant Secretary of the Army (Installations and Logistics) is also responsible for construction; command, industrial and civil real property; management and engineering at industrial facilities and logistical installations; physical security of industrial facilities; housing and public quarters; and the Army Contract Adjustment Board.

Assistant Secretary of the Army (Financial Management)

Subject to the direction and control of the Secretary of the Army, the Assistant Secretary of the Army (Financial Management) is authorized to act for and with the authority of the Secretary of the Army within the fields of responsibility as delineated below. He is designated as the Assistant Secretary to whom the Comptroller of the Army is directly responsible under the provisions of section 3014(d), title 10 U.S.C., and as such he directs and supervises the performance within the Department of the Army of all functions assigned or delegated to the Comptroller of the Army, including those contemplated by section 3014

(a), title 10 U.S.C. The Assistant Secretary of the Army (Financial Management) is responsible for all financial management activities of the Army including: budgeting and funding; accounting matters, including disbursement and collection of funds; contract financing and management engineering policy, to include management type contracts; audit activities, claims, reports of survey, and matters pertaining to loss of funds; automatic data processing equipment program (exclusive of procurement), and all aspects of ADP policy and administration; progress and statistical reporting; and programing concepts and systems. He is responsible for working capital funds, including stock funds and industrial funds; management information systems, operations research; policy and coordination of international balance of payments activities; coordination of Army aviation matters, and for matters pertaining to the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice.

Director of Civil Defense

[For regulations codified under Office of Civil Defense, see Code of Federal Regulations, Title 32, Chapter XVIII]

Subject to the direction and control of the Secretary of the Army, the Director of Civil Defense is authorized and directed to act for the Secretary of the Army within the following listed fields of responsibility: (1) developing and executing (a) a shelter program,

(b) a chemical, biological, and radiological defense program, (c) measures necessary to warn or alert Federal military or civilian authorities, State officials, and the civil population, (d) a communications program, including a warning network, reporting or monitoring instructions to shelters, and communications between authorities, (e) emergency assistance to State and local governments in a post-attack period, including water, debris, fire, health, traffic police, and evacuation capabilities, (f) protection and emergency operational capability of State and local governmental agencies in keeping with plans for the continuity of government, and (g) programs for making financial contributions to the States for civil defense purposes; (2) developing plans and operating systems to undertake a nationwide post-attack assessment of the nature and extent of the damage resulting from enemy attack and the survival resources; and (3) making necessary arrangements for the donation of Federal surplus property for civil defense purposes in accordance with applicable statutes. In the performance of his functions, he works with other agencies of the Government, State and local leaders, industry, and private organizations, as appropriate. He is authorized to exercise the powers and authorities vested in the Secretary of Defense for civil defense assigned functions, as further delegated to the Secretary of the Army.

General Counsel and Special Assistant for Civil Functions

The General Counsel is directly responsible to the Secretary of the Army. He serves as civilian legal adviser to the Secretary, the Under Secretary, and the Assistant Secretaries of the Army. In addition, he acts as Special Assistant to the Secretary of the Army for Civil Functions and is assigned responsibility for the civil functions of the Department of the Army.

Chief of Public Information

The Chief of Public Information is directly responsible to the Secretary of the Army and is responsive to requirements of the Chief of Staff in Army public information matters. He advises the Secretary of the Army, the Chief of Staff, and agencies of the Department of Defense on public information matters involving the Army; and, in accordance with policies established by the Secretary of Defense, coordinates and supervises, through the Office of the Chief of Staff, the worldwide implementation of public information policies and programs of the Department of the Army.

Chief of Legislative Liaison

The Chief of Legislative Liaison formulates, coordinates, and supervises the approved legislative programs of the Army (except for appropriation acts), and insures the maintenance of proper relationships between the Army and the Congress. He also advises the Secretary of the Army, the Under Secretary of the Army, the Assistant Secretaries of the Army, and the Chief of Staff on the situation of the Department of the Army in its relations with the Congress and on developments which may affect the legislative program of the Department of the Army.

Administrative Assistant

The Administrative Assistant serves as the career civilian assistant to the Secretary of the Army. He advises the Secretary on matters of administrative policy, undertakes management and special projects as directed by the Secretary, and acts for the Secretary in many official matters not requiring his personal attention. He is responsible for the effective administration of the Office, Secretary of the Army, including comprehensive management programs, administrative coordination of Secretarial level actions, personnel administration, correspondence and records administration, and the provision of certain administrative and office services to the Headquarters, Department of the Army and the Department of Defense at the seat of government. He administers the Department of the Army Committee Management Program and, pursuant to the policy direction of the Under Secretary of the Army, the Department of the Army civilian personnel security program.

Army Policy Council

The Army Policy Council is the senior policy advisory council of the Department of the Army. It provides the Secretary of the Army and his principal civilian and military assistants with a forum for the discussion of Army subjects of general interest and an opportunity for members to advise with other members on matters arising within their specific areas of responsibility.

Army Staff

The Army Staff is the military staff of the Secretary of the Army at the seat of government which is presided over by the Chief of Staff. It includes the Chief of Staff and his immediate assistants, the General Staff and the Special Staff agencies. The Army Staff renders professional advice and assistance to the Secretary of the Army, the Under Secretary of the Army, and the Assistant Secretaries of the Army. It is the duty of the Army Staff to:

Prepare for such employment of the Army and for such recruiting, organizing, supplying, equipping, training, serving, mobilizing, and demobilizing of the Army as will assist the execution of any power, duty, or function of the Secretary or the Chief of Staff.

Investigate and report upon the efficiency of the Army and its preparation for military operations.

Prepare detailed instructions for the execution of approved plans and to supervise the execution of such plans and instructions.

Act as the agent of the Secretary of the Army and the Chief of Staff in coordinating the action of all organizations of the Department of the Army.

Perform such other duties not otherwise assigned by law as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Army.

Chief of Staff

The Chief of Staff is the principal military adviser to the Secretary of the Army and is charged by him with the planning, development, execution, review, and analysis of the Army program. The Chief of Staff, under the direction of the Secretary of the Army, supervises all members and organizations of the Army, performs the duties prescribed for him by the National Security Act of 1947 and other laws, and performs such other military duties not otherwise assigned by law as may be assigned to him by the President or by the Secretary of the Army. Except as otherwise prescribed by law, by the President, or by the Secretary of Defense, the Chief of Staff performs his duties under the direction of the Secretary of the Army. The Chief of Staff, by virtue of his position, takes rank above all officers on the active list of the Army, Navy, and Air Force, except the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and except the Chief of Naval Operations and the Chief of Staff, United States Air Force, if those latter two officers' appointments, as such, antedate his. The Chief of Staff presides over the Army Staff. He is directly responsible to the Secretary of the Army for the efficiency of the Army, its state of preparation for military operations and plans therefor. He transmits to the Secretary of the Army plans and recommendations prepared by the Army Staff, advises him in regard thereto, and, upon the approval of plans or recommendations by the Secretary of the Army, acts as the agent of the Secretary of the Army in carrying the same into effect.

VICE CHIEF OF STAFF.—The Vice Chief of Staff is the principal assistant and adviser to the Chief of Staff. By delegation of the Chief of Staff, the Vice Chief of Staff has authority to perform any statutory or other duties which the Chief of Staff is required or authorized to perform with respect to the Department of the Army.

SECRETARY OF THE GENERAL STAFF.—The Secretary of the General Staff serves as executive assistant to the Chief of Staff and Vice Chief of Staff. He assists the Vice Chief of Staff in the management and coordination of Army staff activities.

Army General Staff

The Army General Staff is the principal element of the Army Staff. It consists of designated commissioned officers assigned to the Offices of Chief of Staff, Deputy Chiefs of Staff, Comptroller of the Army, Chief of Research and Development, Chief, Office of Reserve Components, Assistant Chiefs of Staff, General Staff Committees on Army National Guard and Army Reserve Policy (resident members only), and such other offices as may be designated by the Secretary of the Army. Under the direction of the Chief of Staff the Army General Staff renders professional advice and assistance to the Secretary, the Under Secretary, and the Assistant Secretaries of the Army in providing broad basic policies and plans for the guidance of the Department of the Army. The Army General Staff specifically assists the Secretary in the preparation and issuance of directives to implement plans and policies and in the supervision of the execution and implementation of these directives.

DEPUTY CHIEF OF STAFF FOR MILITARY OPERATIONS.—The Deputy Chief of Staff for Military Operations has Army General Staff responsibility for the establishment of requirements for and the utilization of Army forces, and serves as principal adviser to the Chief of Staff on joint matters. He is the Army Operations Deputy for the Joint Chiefs of Staff. He has general staff responsibility for strategic concepts, estimates, plans (including Army aspects of joint plans) and broad force requirements; Army Command and Control System, operational readiness of Army forces, execution of approved Army operational plans and Army participation in joint operations; development of the Army position on National Security Council matters and on international politico-military matters; overall roles and missions of the Army; overall operational priorities; coordination of Army cold war activities; broad policies and plans for military assistance programs; civil defense and civil affairs activities; and functions of the Army related to outer space, electronic warfare, and special warfare. He exercises general staff supervision over the Chief of Communications-Electronics and the Chief of Military History.

DEPUTY CHIEF OF STAFF FOR PERSONNEL.—The Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel has Army General Staff responsibility for policies, plans, and programs for the procurement, administration, and management of Department of the Army military and civilian manpower and personnel of all components of the Army on active duty. He exercises general staff supervision over The Adjutant General, Chief of Chaplains, The Provost Marshal General, The Surgeon General, and Chief of Personnel Operations.

DIRECTOR OF THE WOMEN'S ARMY CORPS.—The Director of the Women's Army Corps advises the Secretary of the Army and the Chief of Staff on matters relating to the Women's Army Corps. The Office of the Director, Women's Army Corps, is assigned to the Office, Chief of Staff, and is attached for administrative purposes to the Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel.

DEPUTY CHIEF OF STAFF FOR LOGISTICS.—The Deputy Chief of Staff for Logistics has Army General Staff responsibility for the management of Department of the Army logistical activities. He has general staff responsibility for development and supervision of the Army logistic organization and system; logistic planning in support of joint and Army operations plans; materiel and supplies management; military construction, family housing, and real property management; Army logistic support of international logistic activities; transportation; and Army interservice supply operations. He exercises general staff supervision over Chief of Engineers and Chief of Support Services, except that his responsibilities do not extend to their civil functions.

COMPTROLLER OF THE ARMY.—The Comptroller of the Army has general staff responsibility for independent review and analysis of Army programs, and analysis of major Army commands; accounting, fiscal, audit, budgetary, progress and statistical reporting, reports control, cost analysis, and management analysis activities of the Army; legislative policies and programs pertaining to appropriation acts; management systems of the Army; overall management improvement; and analysis of Army organization, functions, and procedures. He exercises general staff supervision over Chief of Finance and Chief, United States Army Audit Agency. The Comptroller of the Army is under the direction and supervision of, and is directly responsible to, the Assistant Secretary of the Army (Financial Management), for financial management matters, by delegation of the Secretary of the Army, with concurrent responsibility to the Chief of Staff. The Comptroller of the Army's relationship to the Chief of Staff corresponds to that of a Deputy Chief of Staff.

CHIEF OF RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT.—The Chief of Research and Development, under the functional supervision of the Assistant Secretary of the Army (Research and Development), and responsible to the Chief of Staff, has Army General Staff responsibility for all Army research, development, test, and evaluation, including review and analysis, research and development objectives, policies, and funds essential to the discharge of this responsibility; plans, projects, tasks, and priorities relating thereto; qualitative materiel requirements and small development requirements for all Army materiel, and military characteristics for nuclear warheads; and the research and development aspects of international military cooperation programs. He has a relationship to the Chief of Staff corresponding to that of a Deputy Chief of Staff. He directs the activities of the Army Research Office.

CHIEF, OFFICE OF RESERVE COMPONENTS.—The Chief, Office of Reserve Components is directly responsible for Reserve affairs to the Chief of Staff and has Army General Staff responsibility for the development of the Reserve forces of the Army. He has general staff responsibility for plans and programs to produce the individuals and units of the Reserve Components; plans, policies, and programs of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps; development of Reserve Component needs for materiel and supplies; policies, priorities, and programs pertaining to facilities for the Reserve Components; operational readiness of the Reserve Components; and detailed plans and procedures for total or partial mobilization and demobilization of Reserve Component units and individuals. He exercises general staff supervision of the Army Reserve Component activities of the Chief, National Guard Bureau, and of the Chief, Army Reserve. He has a relationship to the Chief of Staff corresponding to that of a Deputy Chief of Staff. The Reserve Components of the Army are the Army National Guard of the United States and the United States Army Reserve (10 U.S.C. 261). The provisions outlined above do not affect the functions of the Chief, National Guard Bureau (10 U.S.C. 264(c), 3015), who has the authority to advise the Chief of Staff directly on matters pertaining to the Army National Guard.

ASSISTANT CHIEF OF STAFF FOR FORCE DEVELOPMENT.—The Assistant Chief of Staff for Force Development has Army General Staff responsibility for the development of Army forces; for Army force development plans and detailed Army force structures; overall mobilization and demobilization planning; training concepts, policies, and programs for individuals and units of the Army; qualitative materiel development objectives, total feasibility studies, and the establishment of operational priorities and requirements for the procurement of materiel; operational priorities for development and procurement of nuclear weapons; combat developments and organization, and operational concepts, doctrine, and related matters, including troop tests; overall international military standardization programs; Department of Defense language training; overall coordination of Army chemical, biological, and radiological activities, aviation activities, nuclear activities, and strategic mobility exercises. He exercises supervision and control of the United States Military Academy, the United States Army War College, and the United States Military Academy Preparatory School. He has a relationship to the Chief of Staff corresponding to that of a Deputy Chief of Staff.

ASSISTANT CHIEF OF STAFF FOR INTELLIGENCE.—The Assistant Chief of Staff for Intelligence has Army General Staff responsibility for all matters pertaining to the intelligence and counterintelligence activities of the United States Army. He has general staff responsibility for planning, coordinating, and effecting the fulfillment of Army intelligence and counterintelligence requirements, and supervising Army intelligence and counterintelligence collection, production, and dissemination activities; communications intelligence, electronic intelligence, communications security, and electronic security responsibilities; measures for safeguarding defense information; Army-wide counterintelligence activities; Army cryptologic functions; intelligence doctrine and organizational and operational concepts; combat intelligence, and strategic intelligence training and schooling activities; liaison with foreign military personnel in the United States; and program direction of the Army mapping and geodesy program. He directs the United States Army Attaché System, specified elements of the United States Army Intelligence Reserve, and the Intelligence Corps, United States Army.

GENERAL STAFF COMMITTEES ON ARMY NATIONAL GUARD AND ARMY RESERVE POLICY.—The General Staff Committees on Army National Guard and Army Reserve Policy are responsible for formulating and/or reviewing all policies affecting the Army National Guard and the Army Reserve; for submitting recommendations thereon to the Secretary of the Army, through the Chief of Staff; and for reviewing regulations designed to carry such policies into effect.

Special Staff

The heads of special staff agencies provide advice and assistance to the Secretary of the Army, the Chief of Staff, other members of the Army staff, and to all other elements of the Department of the Army on specialized matters specifically within their respective fields of responsibility. As staff officers of Headquarters, Department of the Army, they are responsible for the preparation of plans, estimates, and orders; review of technical doctrine; and the coordination of their technical, administrative, and operational plans and activities with other agencies of the Army staff.

The heads of certain special staff agencies exercise dual functions of staff and command. These two functions, although vested in a single individual, are separate and distinct in that each involves different responsibilities and duties.

THE ADJUTANT GENERAL.—The Adjutant General has Army staff responsibility for the Army's administration and administrative services. He has responsibility for the Army personnel statistical and accounting system, records management program, publications system, Army-wide postal services, courier services, special services activities, heraldic activities, and the Central US Registry. He provides data services to Headquarters, Department of the Army; develops, tests, and implements personnel and administrative data processing systems and procedures pertaining to AG operations; and provides maintenance and servicing of the personnel records for active duty, retired, and Reserve personnel.

CHIEF OF ENGINEERS.—The Chief of Engineers has Army staff responsibility for providing general and specialized engineering services for the Army, for the Department of Defense, and for other governmental agencies as assigned; monitoring all engineer matters; providing for maintenance and repair of real property and operation of utilities plants and systems; and Army family housing matters. He plans, directs, and supervises engineering, construction, and real estate services for the Army and for the Air Force and other governmental agencies as assigned. Under the supervision of the Secretary of the Army, the Chief of Engineers has responsibility for construction, operation, and maintenance, and real estate necessary for the improvement of rivers, harbors, and waterways for navigation, flood control, and related purposes, including shore protection; administration of the laws for the protection and preservation of the navigable waters of the United States; and provision of general and specialized construction and engineering services for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and for other governmental agencies as assigned. Under program direction of the Assistant Chief of Staff for Intelligence, he provides and directs assigned elements engaged in mapping, geodesy, military geographic intelligence, and related services, to include maintenance of the Department of Defense master worldwide mapping and geodetic library and the Department of Defense World Geodetic System.

[For regulations codified under Corps of Engineers, see Code of Federal Regulations, Title 33, Chapter II; Title 36, Chapter III.]

CHIEF OF FINANCE.—The Chief of Finance has Army staff responsibility for providing such Army-wide financial services as may be required.

THE SURGEON GENERAL.—The Surgeon General has Army staff responsibility for the management of health services for the Army and, as directed, for other services, agencies, and organizations; and establishes health standards applicable to personnel of the Army. He commands Army Medical Service personnel, organizations, and facilities, as assigned; and exercises technical staff supervision over all other medical facilities and units of the Army. He serves as chief of the Army Medical Service, and exercises career management authority over commissioned personnel of the Army Medical Service, and is responsible for medical professional training and medical research, development, and test and evaluation for the Army. On health and medical matters, including the utilization of Army Medical Service professional personnel, the Surgeon General has direct access to the Secretary of the Army and the Chief of Staff.

CHIEF OF CHAPLAINS.—The Chief of Chaplains has Army staff responsibility for religious, moral, and character guidance matters Army-wide. He serves as chief of the Chaplain's branch, and exercises career management authority over members of the Chaplain's branch.

THE JUDGE ADVOCATE GENERAL.—The Judge Advocate General is the statutory legal adviser of the Secretary of the Army and of all officers and agencies of the Army. He is responsible for the career management of the members of the Judge Advocate General's Corps. He administers the Army claims and legal assistance services, its system of military justice, is the custodian of general court-martial and real property records, and receives, revises, and records the proceedings of courts of inquiry and military commissions. He maintains liaison with the Department of Justice and other Federal and State agencies on matters connected with litigation and legal proceedings and exercises staff supervision over this activity within the Army. He directs members of the Judge Advocate General's Corps in the performance of their duties.

THE INSPECTOR GENERAL.—The Inspector General, as a confidential representative of the Secretary of the Army and the Chief of Staff, inquires into and reports upon matters affecting the performance of mission and the state of discipline, efficiency, and economy of the Department of the Army, and performs such additional duties as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Army or the Chief of Staff, or as required by law.

CHIEF OF COMMUNICATIONS-ELECTRONICS.—The Chief of Communications-Electronics has Army staff responsibility for radio frequency spectrum and call sign management and utilization, and the Army electromagnetic compatibility program; joint actions pertaining to communications-electronics; and staff advice and coordination for communications, including pertinent communications security. He advises the Army staff on technical communications-electronics aspects of missile systems, audiovisual communications systems, aviation electronics, electronic warfare, fire coordination, combat surveillance and target acquisition, meteorology, and automatic data processing systems.

CHIEF, NATIONAL GUARD BUREAU.—The National Guard Bureau is a joint bureau of the Department of the Army and the Department of the Air Force headed by a chief who is the adviser to the Army Chief of Staff and the Air Force Chief of Staff on National Guard matters. The National Guard Bureau is the channel of communication between the departments concerned and the several States, Puerto Rico, and the District of Columbia on matters pertaining to the National Guard, the Army National Guard of the United States, and the Air National Guard of the United States (10 U.S.C. 3015). The Chief, National Guard Bureau, is directly responsible to the Army Chief of Staff for all matters pertaining to the development and maintenance of the Army National Guard and the Army National Guard of the United States, and advises all other elements of the Army staff on Army National Guard matters.

CHIEF OF INFORMATION.—The Chief of Information has Army staff responsibility for all matters pertaining to public and command information and for information plans and programs in support of Army basic plans and programs.

CHIEF OF MILITARY HISTORY.—The Chief of Military History advises the Chief of Staff on historical matters; formulates and executes the Army Historical Program; coordinates and supervises all Army historical matters, including historical properties; and prepares and publishes histories required by the Army.

CHIEF, ARMY RESERVE.—The Chief, Army Reserve, has Army staff responsibility for all matters pertaining to the development and maintenance of the Army Reserve. He has staff responsibility for implementation and execution of approved plans, policies, and programs pertaining to the Army Reserve; and the Army Reserve segments of the Reserve Components Program and the Reserve Components Mobilization Program.

THE PROVOST MARSHAL GENERAL.—The Provost Marshal General has Army staff responsibility for the broad functions of protective services, preserving law and order, and of crime prevention applicable Army-wide. He has staff responsibility for provost marshal and military police activities; criminal investigations and law enforcement; motor vehicle accident investigation, traffic control, and traffic law enforcement; apprehension of absentees; physical security; implementation of industrial defense activities; the Army Correction Program; and prisoners of war and civilian internees.

CHIEF OF PERSONNEL OPERATIONS.—The Chief of Personnel Operations implements policies, executes programs, and supervises procedures applicable to the worldwide personnel management of Army military personnel. He has responsibility for assignment control and career management of officers and warrant officers; administration of personnel management activities of the Army Reserve Components; administering the Army-wide reenlistment program; and developing and recommending personnel standards, military occupational specialties, and systems and procedures for procurement, selection, classification, assignment, utilization, and retention of military personnel.

CHIEF OF SUPPORT SERVICES.—The Chief of Support Services has Army staff responsibility for the provision of certain support services for the Army. He has staff responsibility for Army-wide logistic support services; and care and disposition of remains and personal effects of deceased personnel of the Army, and as directed for the Navy and Air Force. The Chief of Support Services is directly responsible to the Secretary of the Army for the operation of the national cemetery system and the procurement of Government headstones and markers.

CHIEF, UNITED STATES ARMY AUDIT AGENCY.—The Chief, United States Army Audit Agency, under the general staff supervision of the Comptroller of the Army, is responsible for providing advice and assistance to the Secretary of the Army, the Chief of Staff, other members of the Army staff, and to all other elements of the Department of the Army with respect to Army-wide audit service.
