The Department of the Army is charged with the responsibility of providing support for national and international policy and the security of the United States by planning, directing, and reviewing the military and civil operations of the Department of the Army, to include the organization, training, and equipping of land forces of the United States for the conduct of prompt and sustained combat operations on land in accordance with plans for national security.

The Department of War was established as an executive department at the seat of government by an act approved August 7, 1789. The Secretary of War was established as its head and his powers were those entrusted to him by the President (1 Stat. 49; 5 U.S.C. 181).

The National Security Act of 1947 created the National Military Establishment and the Department of War was designated the Department of the Army and the title of its Secretary became Secretary of the Army (61 Stat. 499; 5 U.S.C. 171).

The National Security Act Amendments of 1949 established the Department of Defense as an executive department of Government and provided that the Department of the Army be a military department within the Department of Defense (63 Stat. 578; 5 U.S.C. 171).

The Army Organization Act provided the statutory basis for the internal organization of the Army and the Department of the Army. The act consolidated and revised the numerous earlier laws, incorporated various adjustments made necessary by the National Security Act of 1947 and other postwar enactments, and provided for the organization of the Department of the Army in a single comprehensive statute, with certain minor exceptions. In general, the act followed the policy of vesting broad organizational powers in the Secretary of the Army, subject to delegation by him, rather than specifying duties of subordinate officers (10 U.S.C. 3012, 3062).

The Command of the Army is exercised by the President through the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of the Army who directly represent him; and, under the law and decisions of the Supreme Court, their acts are the President's acts, and their directions and orders are the President's directions and orders.

Office of the Secretary of the Army

SECRETARY

The Secretary of the Army is the head of the Department of the Army. Subject to the direction, authority, and control of the President as Commander in Chief and of the Secretary of Defense, the Secretary of the Army is responsible for and has the authority to conduct all affairs of the Department of the Army, including its organization, administration, operation and efficiency, and such other activities as may be prescribed by the President or the Secretary of Defense as authorized by law.

The Secretary is responsible for the civil administration in designated foreign areas; certain civil functions, such as the maintenance, care, and operation of the Panama Canal; the civil works program of the Corps of Engineers; Arlington and Soldiers' Home National Cemeteries; and such other activities of a civil nature as may be prescribed by higher authority or authorized by law.

PRINCIPAL ASSISTANTS

The principal assistants to the Secretary of the Army are the Under Secretary of the Army; the Assistant Secretaries of the Army for Civil Works, Financial Management, Installations and Logistics, Manpower and Reserve Affairs, and Research and Development; the General Counsel; the Administrative Assistant; and the Chiefs of Legislative Liaison and Public Information. Subject to the direction and control of the Secretary of the Army, these principal assistants are authorized and directed to act for the Secretary of the Army within their respective fields of responsibility and as further directed by the Secretary. This authority extends not only to actions within the Department of the Army, but also to relationships and transactions with the Congress and other governmental and nongovernmental organizations and individuals. These officials are responsible for the exercise of direction and supervision over matters pertaining to the formulation, execution, and review of policies, plans, and programs within their respective functional areas, including the establishment of objectives and appraisal of performance.

ARMY POLICY COUNCIL

The Army Policy Council is the senior policy advisory council of the Department of the Army. It provides the Secretary of the Army and his principal civilian and military assistants with a forum for the discussion of Army subjects of significant policy interest and an opportunity for members to consult with other members on matters arising within their specific areas of responsibility.

Army Staff

The Army Staff, presided over by the Chief of Staff, is the military staff of the Secretary of the Army. It includes a General Staff, a Special Staff, and a Personal Staff. The Army Staff renders professional advice and assistance to the Secretary of the Army, the Under Secretary of the Army, and the Assistant Secretaries of the Army.

It is the duty of the Army Staff to: prepare for employment of the Army and for such recruiting, organizing, supplying, equipping, training, mobilizing, and demobilizing of the Army as will assist the execution of any power, duty, or function of the Secretary or the Chief of Staff; investigate and report upon the efficiency of the Army and its preparation for military operations; act as the agent of the Secretary of the Army and the Chief of Staff in coordinating the action of all organizations of the Department of the Army; and perform such other duties not otherwise assigned by law as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Army.

CHIEF OF STAFF

The Chief of Staff is the principal military adviser to the Secretary of the Army and is charged by him with the planning, development, execution, review, and analysis of the Army programs. The Chief of Staff, under the direction of the Secretary of the Army, supervises all members and organizations of the Army and performs the duties prescribed for him by the National Security Act of 1947 and other laws. He is directly responsible to the Secretary of the Army for the efficiency of the Army, its state of preparation for military operations and plans therefor.

The Chief of Staff serves as the Army member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and as a member of the Armed Forces Policy Council. As a member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, he is one of the principal advisers to the President, the National Security Council, and the Secretary of Defense.

ARMY GENERAL STAFF

Under the direction of the Chief of Staff, the Army General Staff renders professional advice and assistance to the Secretary, the Under Secretary, and the Assistant Secretaries of the Army in providing broad basic policies and plans for the guidance of the Department of the Army. The Army General Staff specifically assists the Secretary in the preparation and issuance of directives to implement plans and policies and in the supervision of the execution and implementation of these directives.

SPECIAL STAFF

The Special Staff provides advice and assistance to the Secretary of the Army, the Chief of Staff, other members of the Army Staff, and elements of the Department of the Army on specialized matters specifically within their respective fields of responsibility.

The heads of certain Special Staff agencies exercise dual functions of staff and command. These two functions, although vested in a single individual, are separate and distinct in that each involves different responsibilities and duties.

PERSONAL STAFF

The Personal Staff to the Chief of Staff includes his aides, the Inspector General and Auditor General, and any other Army Staff member whose activities he desires to coordinate and administer directly.

Program Areas

CIVIL FUNCTIONS

Civil functions of the Department include the Civil Works Program, the administration of Arlington and Soldiers' Home National Cemeteries, and other related matters.

The Army's Civil Works Program, a responsibility of the Corps of Engineers under the direction and supervision of the Secretary of the Army, dates back to 1824 and is the Nation's major Federal water resources development activity and involves engineering works such as major dams, reservoirs, levees, harbors, waterways, locks, and many other types of structures. These works provide flood protection for cities and major river valleys, reduce the cost of transportation, supply water for municipal and industrial use, generate hydroelectric power, provide recreational opportunities for vast numbers of people, regulate the rivers for many purposes including the improvement of water quality and the enhancement of fish and wildlife, protect the shores of the oceans and lakes, and provide still other types of benefits. Planning assistance is also provided to States and other non-Federal entities for the comprehensive management of water resources, including pollution abatement works. In addition, through the Civil Works Program the Federal Government protects the navigable waters of the United States under legislation empowering the Secretary of the Army to prohibit activities which would reduce the value of such waters to the Nation.

Responsibility for 82 of 84 national cemeteries and for procurement and supply of Government headstones and markers was transferred from the Department of the Army to the Veterans Administration in 1973. The Department of the Army continues to be responsible for Arlington and Soldiers' Home National Cemeteries.

MEDICAL

Management of health services for the Army and, as directed for other services, agencies, and organizations; health standards for Army personnel; health professional education and training; career management authority over commissioned and warrant officer personnel of the Army Medical Department; medical research, materiel development, test and evaluation; policies concerning health aspects of Army environmental programs and prevention of disease; and planning, programing, and budgeting for Army-wide health services.

INSPECTION

Management of inquiries, inspections, audits, manpower surveys, and reports on matters affecting the performance of mission and the state of discipline, efficiency, economy, safety, and morale of the Department of the Army.

RELIGIOUS

Management of religious, moral, moral leadership, and human self-development matters Army-wide; religious ministrations, religious education, pastoral care and counseling for Army military personnel; liaison with the ecclesiastical agencies; chapel construction requirements and design approval; and career management of clergymen serving in the Chaplains Branch.

LEGAL

Legal advisory services provided for the Secretary of the Army and for all military personnel and agencies of the Army; review and final action as designee of the Secretary of the Army on complaints of wrongs by service personnel submitted under Article 138, Uniform Code of Military Justice; administration of military justice and civil law matters pertaining to the Army; administration of Army claims and legal assistance services; operation of the legal system of appellate reviews of court-martial records as provided by the Uniform Code of Military Justice; general court-martial and real property records custodianship; records administration of proceedings of courts of inquiry and military commissions; liaison service with the Department of Justice and other Federal and State agencies on matters connected with litigation and legal proceedings concerning the Army; and career management of Judge Advocate General's Corps officers.

INFORMATION

Public information, command information, and community relations services and preparation of information plans and programs in support of Army basic plans and programs.

HISTORY

Advisory and coordination service provided on historical matters, including historical properties; formulation and execution of the Army Historical Program; and preparation and publication of histories required by the Army.

Major Army CommandsUNITED STATES ARMY FORCES
COMMAND

The Commanding General, United States Army Forces Command, commands all assigned Active Army forces in the continental United States, the Continental United States Armies, and the United States Army Reserve within the United States. He serves as Commander in Chief, United States Army Forces Readiness Command and for planning purposes, as Commander in Chief, United States Army Forces Atlantic Command. He also commands those subordinate commands, installations, and activities assigned by Headquarters, Department of the Army and, as directed, provides administrative and logistical support through his subordinate installation commanders to other Department of the Army, Department of Defense, or other Government agencies. In addition, he supervises the training of Army National Guard units within the United States, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands of the United States.

The Commanding General of each of the Continental United States Armies has the primary mission, under the Commanding General, United States Army Forces Command, to command the United States Army Reserve, plan for mobilization, coordinate domestic emergencies, and exercise training supervision over the Army National Guard. The three Army areas are as follows:

First United States Army (Headquarters, Fort George G. Meade, Md.)—Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, New York, Vermont, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. Virgin Islands.

Fifth United States Army (Headquarters, Fort Sam Houston, Tex.)—Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, Missouri, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Ohio, and Kentucky.

Sixth United States Army (Headquarters, Presidio of San Francisco, Calif.)—Montana, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Utah, Nevada, Arizona, California, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Nebraska, and Kansas.

UNITED STATES ARMY TRAINING AND DOCTRINE COMMAND

The Commanding General, United States Army Training and Doctrine Command, develops, manages, and supervises the training of individuals of the Active Army and Reserve Components. He also formulates and documents concepts, doctrine, materiel requirements, organizations, and appropriate systems for the Army in all environments, tactical and nontactical.

He commands subordinate commands, installations, and activities as may be assigned by Headquarters, Department of the Army and, as directed, provides administrative and logistical support through his subordinate installation commanders to other Department of the Army, Department of Defense, or other Government agencies.

UNITED STATES ARMY MATERIEL COMMAND

The Commanding General, United States Army Materiel Command, develops and provides materiel and related services to the Army, to Army elements of unified commands and specified commands, and to other United States and foreign agencies as directed. His principal functions include research; development; product, production, and maintenance engineering; testing and evaluation of materiel; production and procurement of materiel; inventory management; and storage and distribution, maintenance, transportation, and disposal of materiel.

UNITED STATES ARMY COMMUNICATIONS COMMAND

The Commanding General, United States Army Communications Command, is responsible for the engineering, installation, operation, and maintenance of the Army portion of the Defense Communications System and other assigned Army communications. He provides Army installation and base communications and Army air traffic control, not established under Army division forces. He supports civil defense communications and warning programs and provides other special communications systems.

UNITED STATES ARMY SECURITY AGENCY

The Commanding General, United States Army Security Agency, is responsible for the operations, training, administration, services, and supply for all units, personnel, activities, and installations under his command throughout the world. He assists Army commanders, as required, in the formulation and implementation of communications security plans, policies, and operational procedures. He maintains liaison with counterpart activities of the Departments of the Navy and Air Force and other governmental agencies for coordination of activities.

UNITED STATES ARMY HEALTH SERVICES COMMAND

The Commanding General, United States Army Health Services Command, performs health services for the Army within the United States and, as directed, for other governmental agencies and activities. He commands the Army hospital system within the United States and other organizations, units, and facilities as may be directed. He is responsible for the conduct of medical professional education for Army personnel. He is further responsible, under the guidance of the Commanding General, United States Training and Doctrine Command, for the development of medical doctrine, concepts, organizations, materiel requirements, and systems in support of the Army.

UNITED STATES ARMY CRIMINAL INVESTIGATION COMMAND

The Commanding General, United States Army Criminal Investigation

Command, is responsible for exercising centralized command, authority, direction, and control of Army criminal investigative activities worldwide and for providing investigative support to all United States Army elements. He is charged with, and is responsible directly to the Secretary of the Army and the Chief of Staff for, conducting, controlling, and monitoring Army criminal investigations; developing investigative standards, procedures, and doctrinal policies; operating a criminal intelligence element; operating the United States Army Crime Records Repository; maintaining centralized records of criminal investigative agents; reviewing all investigative reports; operating investigative crime laboratories; planning and conducting protective service operations; and conducting the accreditation/certification program of investigative agents.

MILITARY TRAFFIC MANAGEMENT
COMMAND

The Commanding General, Military Traffic Management Command (MTMC), is the Executive Director for military traffic management, land transportation, and common-user ocean terminal service within the United States, excluding Alaska and Hawaii, and for worldwide traffic management of the Department of Defense household goods moving and storage program. He administers Department of Defense activities pertaining to Highways for National Defense.

UNITED STATES ARMY MILITARY DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON

The Commanding General, United States Army Military District of Washington (USAMDW), commands all units, activities, and installations in the National Capital area as may be assigned by Headquarters, Department of the Army (HQDA); provides base operation and other support to the Department of the Army, Department of Defense, or other Government activities which are tenants of or are satellited on USAMDW installations for such support; plans for and executes those missions peculiar to the needs of the seat of government as assigned by HQDA; and provides an organized and responsive defense to the Nation's Capital when required.

UNITED STATES ARMY RECRUITING
COMMAND

The Commanding General, United States Army Recruiting Command is responsible for recruiting personnel from civil life for the Active Army, examining applicants for enlistment in the armed services, and processing and inducting or enlisting qualified personnel. He exercises command over subordinate activities of the Recruiting Command and is responsible for performing the executive agency responsibility for the Department of Defense in commanding and operating all Armed Forces Examining and Entrance Stations. (This command is managed as if it were a major Army command, although it is a field operating agency directly under the Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel.)

ARMY COMPONENTS OF UNIFIED
COMMANDS

The missions of the commanding generals of the Army components of unified commands are set forth in directives of the Department of Defense. The Army components of unified commands are major field commands of the Department of the Army and consist of such subordinate commands, units, activities, and installations as may, from time to time, be assigned to them by Headquarters, Department of the Army. In certain unified command areas—such as United States Pacific Command, United States Southern Command, and United States Atlantic Command—where the Army does not have a separate, single and distinct component headquarters or commander, a designated Army commander in the area will be responsible for certain Army "component" functions that must be performed at his location.

COMMANDS:

United States Army, Europe.

United States Army Forces Readiness Command (Commander in dual capacity as CG, United States Army Forces Command).

United States Army, Japan.
Eighth United States Army.
