Larry R. Larimer

Director
Army, Transformation Decision Analysis Center (TDAC)

Mr. Larry R. Larimer is the Director of the U.S. Army Futures and Concepts Command (FCC) Transformation Decision Analysis Center (TDAC). Mr. Larimer leads a diverse organization of over 700 Civilians and Soldiers who lead, conduct and deliver relevant and timely analysis in support of Army decision needs. As the Director, Mr. Larimer, sets the organization's direction by aligning TDAC's priorities with that of FCC, Transformation and Training Command (T2COM) and the U.S. Army. TDAC is recognized across all echelons of the Army and our partners as the premier source for world-class, value-added, all-domain Army analysis required to inform system and formation design, fielding and operations decisions. Prior to assuming this position, Mr. Larimer served as the Director of the Combat Capabilities Development Command (DEVCOM) Analysis Center at Aberdeen Proving Ground (APG), MD where he was responsible for delivering objective analysis, experimentation, and data across the entire life cycle of materiel systems, enhancing Readiness and enabling Modernization.
