The active, wet pattern continues. Looks like we'll be stuck in it thru the weekend, maybe starting to dry out Monday. There's a mixed bag of cigs across the LFA, and showers have already begun streaming in. Today will look a lot like yesterday, which looked a lot like Monday, which looked a little bit like Sunday. In other words, waves of showers and TS will roll in. Cigs have been tricky, but there will be at least some patchy cigs each N1 and AM thru Sunday. Cigs linger Monday AM, but then we hope to see a change in the pattern.
