U.S. ARMY

Mr. Kahlil "KD" Warner

Chief, Legislative Liaison
Office of the Chief Legislative Liaison (OCLL)
Department of the Army
Washington, D.C.

Mr. Warner serves as the Army's Chief of Legislative Liaison and senior advisor to the Secretary of the Army on all legislative matters. In this capacity, he acts as the primary liaison between senior Department of the Army leadership, Members of Congress, and committees of jurisdiction.

Before his current appointment, Mr. Warner served in the Department of the Navy as primary liaison to the Secretary of the Navy for all Legislative matters. Before the Navy, he served in the Office of the Assistant Secretary of War for Legislative Affairs as the Senior Legislative Advisor to both the Under Secretary of War for Policy and the Under Secretary of War for Personnel & Readiness. In that role, he delivered critical legislative counsel to Department of War senior officials regarding congressional intent on high-priority matters.

A native of College Park, Georgia, Mr. Warner graduated from North Clayton High School and enlisted in the U.S. Army in 2002. Throughout his distinguished military career, he deployed to several combat theaters and served in premier units including, but not limited to the 82nd Airborne Division, 1st Calvary Division, and 75th Ranger Regiment. After 23 years of service to the nation, his time in the military culminated in Washington, D.C. as a Congressional Fellow with Congressman John Carter (R-TX-31).

Mr. Warner is married to Anna Warner who supports various federal agencies including NASA, NOAA, and DoW. Together, they have six sons, including one currently serving in the military and another serving as a police officer.
