

DPW, USAG-Yongsan Building Energy Monitor (BEM) Training

BEM Training is conducted by the DPW, USAG-Yongsan Energy Manager. It is designed to certify building energy monitors (BEMs) and unit energy conservation officers (UECOs).

1. Class description: BEM training is designed to discuss the importance of energy and its financial costs, and effects to the environment. Furthermore, the instructor will provide an overview of energy conservation practices, building inspections, BEM/UECO duties and responsibilities, and discuss the USAG-Yongsan energy conservation policy. Training will take approximately 1 hour.
2. School representatives from units and organizations may submit a by name roster in order to secure slots. Rosters should be submitted no later than one week prior to the class date. Walk-ins are encouraged to attend, however, personnel on rosters will get priority. Attendance is limited to 35 students per class.
3. Classroom location: USAG-Yongsan, Building 1380, room #120.
4. DPW BEM Class Dates: 1330hrs DPW Conference Room, Building 1380
